MILITARY DISTRIBUTION.

THE failure of the state military forces of Colorado to cope with armed rebellion in its mining camps moves the Boston Transcript to some thought inspiring comment. Colorado's inability came at a time when the United States government was rapidly bearing a time when it would be necessary to call upon the states for reserve military force to supplement the regular federal establishment. And it was the regular troops who were called in to quell the rioting.

Colorado has a population of 1,000,000 and a population so disposed industrially that labor disputes ever threaten violence. It has had in the past a bitter experience and has not profited by her experience. To protect herself, she has organized a militia of about 1,400 men widely distributed geographically and so disposed and equipped that concentration is slow and available units not impressive.

Other states are not much better off than Colorado. Neither North nor South Dakota has 1,000 organized militia. Idaho has 760 officers and men. Arizona has 538. New Mexico has but 623. The Pacific coast states, which are continually faced with demagogic agitation against Asiatic races and which would suffer first in case of foreign invasion from the west have not been moved to organize respectable state military forces. California has but 3,600 officers and men; Washington, 1,212, and Oregon, 1,472.

In fact, out of a total national guard strength of 122,000 in the United States, New England, New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey furnish 45,000 men. It is to be hoped that sooner or later there will be a wise, uniform method of military reserve development in this country and that it will not take a bloody war to bring about the change.

Colorado has suffered because her state militia is not popular and is not properly supported. Other states will suffer for the same reason. Apparently in the newer and more unsettled states where a domestic military establishment is one of the needs, the militiaman suffers from the traditions left by the fights of the pioneers and the regular army against the red man. The red man has gone. So has the pioneer and the activity of the regular soldier has been transferred to the southern border and to the Philippines. The militiaman has replaced neither of the protectors, but the red man has been replaced by the industrial agitator, the dynamiter, the rioter and the experience of Colorado is impressive evidence that as an agency of destruction the latter classes are quite effective as the vanished Indian.

Ray Baker is nothing if not swelled up with his own importance. The latest illustration of his enlarged head is the statement that he is in a position where he "calls on the president almost daily." Close scrutiny of the blue book shows he is something like a third rate messenger who stands flat in hand when he approaches the throne.

When the Carson News finds two columns of editorial space to brighten with a poem it is time to consider the mental standing of the overworked editor. Or maybe he is hearkening to the call of Spring and is dallying with Nature and tempting trout from their lair on the Truckee.

The Monroe doctrine may be out of date and all that, but it has been to the South American republics what the jury system has been to the Anglo-Saxon—the bulwark of their liberty.

CESSPOOLS ARE A CERTAIN MENACE PUBLIC HEALTH

The danger of cesspools, vaults and other defective drains to public health was recently pointed out in articles appearing in Reno, as well as local papers, which commented upon the fact that twenty-one cases of typhoid fever were traced to one vault in the city of Reno. Such outbreaks are more than liable to happen right in our community at most any time, since the predominance of vaults and cesspools form a constant menace to public health. Conditions existing in many sections of this town are appalling and should have immediate attention, otherwise there is no telling just where the slight infections now prevalent in this community might end. The attention of the chief commissioner of the Public Service Commission of Nevada, at the time of his last visit to Tonopah, as well as the chairman of the Board of County Commissioners and the health officer, was directed to a cellar on Main street that is overflowing with the effluvia from a neighboring septic tank and this sickening condition exists at the present time with no apparent relief in sight. Whether this is due to neglect on the part of officials entrusted with the safeguarding of public health or whether the present sanitary laws are inadequate to control a situation of this kind has not been determined, but it is safe to say that something must be done at no distant date if we are to avoid a repetition of the plague that visited our town some few years ago. If existing laws and ordinances were correctly construed it would be an easy matter to distribute more equally the burden of sewage disposal. There can be no logic in a situation that imposes present heavy sewage charges upon the few and leaves to the many a freedom from such a tax and gives them the right to pollute neighborhoods in which others are striving for sanitary conditions. The Public Service Commission of Nevada has brought relief in other instances to this town and has promised further relief in the way of reduced sewage charges providing a more liberal patronage is given to the sewer company. Co-operation on the part of the public in this all important branch of public safety is the only means of reducing the individual charge and at the same time help to reduce the doctor bills. Get the habit. Be sanitary.

DIED IN INFIRMARY

LEAVING ESTATE OF $2,200

MARYSVILLE, May 8.—When John McGinn, of Stanford Hill, died in the Yuba County hospital last month, he owed the county for his keep the sum of $818.65, being for a term of three years, four months and 28 days at $29 a month.

His bank account at his death showed a balance of more than $2,200.

If you bought nothing but advertised goods during the next twelve months, you'd reduce the cost and raise the standard of living—surprised?

Don't Let a Cold Settle on Your Lungs

If you have a "persistent cough or cold, take warning before it is too late. Eckman's Alternative has restored to health many persons who had serious lung trouble. Read this case:

"Gentlemen:—During the winter of 1913 I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs. Eckman's Alternative was recommended to me and I commenced using it as a last resort. The first bottle seemed to give no relief, in fact, I seemed to feel worse. I kept on using the medicine and found out the first bottle had really started me on the road to recovery by loosening the mucus and making me expectorate freely. After using the medicine for some time, my cough ceased. I gained flesh and today I am a well man."

(Signed) GEO. M. BATES, Eckman's Alternative is most efficacious in bronchial catarrh and severe throat and lung affections and opium building the system. Contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. Accept no substitutes. Sold by leading druggists. Write Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet of evidence.

OVERLAND AT RENO BEING REMODELED

The Overland hotel at Reno is one of the prettiest little hosteries between New York and the coast. For three months Host Alex. Dromlase has been remodeling, refurbishing and altering the interior in such a way soon the house will stand without a peer in the western country. Fourteen rooms were being converted into suites with toilets and baths attached, and the furniture is all of the most fashionable and costly design, specially prepared for the house. One of the improvements which will appeal to patrons is a rapid action electric elevator which will prove a great convenience. The first consignment of appliances for the elevator have been received and workmen have begun cutting a shaft through to the roof. Something that will appeal to ladies in the shopping district is the change worked in the restaurant whereby it was converted into a parlor with retiring rooms for the comfort of ladies who wish a rest room during the heat of the day.
